

The Kalamazoo K Puzzle

*Cut-out the four pieces along the solid black lines, and use them to form a capital letter K.
Pieces may be turned-over, if necessary.*

This puzzle was distributed, originally, as an advertising premium by the Kalamazoo Pant Company (1867 – 1968).

Each of the four cardboard pieces carried advertising for “Kazoo Knickers,” which dates the original puzzle from the 1930s or earlier.

A multicolored plastic version of this puzzle was used by Michael Tanoff as an exchange gift during the Edward Hordern Puzzle Exchange at the 29th International Puzzle Party, held in San Francisco on August 7th, 2009.
